We are pleased to announce the Scientific Days of the LSEI Laboratory, which will be held at the USTHB Science House on October 23 and 24, 2024. These days will be dedicated to the presentations of the progress reports of our laboratory's doctoral students, providing a valuable opportunity to exchange on their work, receive insightful advice, and gain the encouragement needed to successfully continue their research.

We invite all PhD students of the LSEI Laboratory to submit synthesis articles. Submissions must be formatted according to the guidelines of the organizing committee and the provided template.

Submit Papers

Doctoral students are requested to submit papers in English. All papers must be formatted according to the template format (4-6 pages in IEEE double column format) and submitted via the conference's submission link:
